19 On June 8, 2005, Defendants CNA Group Life Assurance Company
20 ("CNA"), et al., filed a Motion for Summary Judgment in this 21 matter.<sup>1</sup> Motion for Summ. Judg. (doc. 72). Plaintiff Constance Ann 22 Maynard filed her response to this motion on August 22, 2005. Resp 23 (doc. 77). Thereafter, on October 11, 2005, Defendants filed a 24 motion to strike certain exhibits filed by Plaintiff. Mot. to 25 _____

26 <sup>1</sup> On December 22, 2005, the parties in this matter filed a 27 Stipulated Motion for Leave to Amend Complaint to Add Additional 28 Party. Motion for Leave to Amend (doc. 105). This motion requests that Hartford Life Group Insurance Company ("Hartford") be added as a defendant in this case. Id. The Court shall grant this motion and deem this order to apply to all defendants in this matter, including Hartford.

1 Strike (doc. 92). Then, on October 17, 2005, Plaintiff filed a 2 motion for leave to file the Supplemental Declaration of Constance 3 Ann Maynard and the Declaration of Stuart H. Sandhaus. Mot. for 4 Leave to File (doc. 95). In addition, Plaintiff filed a request for 5 judicial notice. Request Jud. Not. (doc. 98). These motions were 6 fully briefed on November 3, 2005, and Defendants' motion for 7 summary judgement was argued orally on December 19, 2005. Reply to 8 Mot. to Strike (doc. 103).

9 I. Background Facts

10 Plaintiff's claims arise under the Employee Retirement Income 11 Security Act of 1974, 29 U.S.C. § 1001 et seq. ("ERISA"). Plaintiff 12 has sued for long-term disability ("LTD") insurance benefits under 13 an employee welfare benefit plan ("Hewitt Plan") provided by her 14 employer, Hewitt Associates, L.L.C. The Hewitt Plan purchased LTD
15 insurance coverage through Continental Casualty Company and CNA
16 Group Life Assurance Company (collectively "CNA") under policy
17 #SR83100971 ("Policy"). The Policy became effective February 1, 18 1997, but was amended on January 1, 2001, granting CNA
19 discretionary authority to determine claims as of January 1, 2001 20 ("Policy-2"). DSOF (doc. 73) at Exbt. B.

21 Plaintiff worked for Hewitt Associates, L.L.C. as a 22 Measurement Consultant. The primary function and components of her 23 job were "[m]arketing of various surveys, including telemarketing 24 and assisting in the coordination of marketing materials to 25 clients." Exbt. C (doc. 73). Plaintiff's position required no heavy 26 or manual labor, and she was expected to work with a computer, 27 telephone, and a calculator. Id. She typically lifted or carried 28 business materials weighing less than ten (10) pounds. Id.

1       On July 5, 2000, Plaintiff stopped working at Hewitt due to an 2 alleged disability, and, thereafter, submitted a claim to CNA for 3 LTD benefits. To demonstrate that an insured was disabled under 4 Policy-2, evidence must indicate that the claimant was 5 "continuously unable to perform the Material and Substantial 6 Duties" of his or her regular occupation. Exbt. B (doc. 73) at 7.
7 "Material and Substantial Duties" means "the necessary functions of 8 [the insured's] Regular Occupation which cannot be reasonably 9 omitted or altered." Id. at 16. "Regular Occupation" means "the 10 occupation that [the insured is] performing for income or wages" on 11 the date of the insured's disability. Id.

12       CNA reviewed Plaintiff's physical job requirements and the 13 medical records provided by Plaintiff's healthcare providers dating 14 back to June of 1999. CNA sent these documents to Dr. Eugene 15 Truchelut, an independent physician, board certified in internal 16 medicine. On or about April 24, 2001, Dr. Truchelut opined that 17 Plaintiff's medical records did not indicate an inability to 18 perform sedentary work activities. Exbt. E (doc. 30) at 5.

19       On June 7, 2001, CNA denied Plaintiff's claim for LTD
20 insurance coverage. After CNA denied Plaintiff's claim for LTD 21 benefits, she exercised her right to appeal CNA's decision and 22 submitted additional documents to CNA. On or about January 18, 23 2002, the appeals committee made a determination that Plaintiff was 24 not disabled under the plan and affirmed CNA's earlier decision.
25 Plaintiff, thereafter, filed this lawsuit. Complaint (doc. 1).

26 III. Defendants' Motion to Strike

27       Defendants ask the Court to strike numerous documents filed by 28 Plaintiff in support of her opposition to Defendants' motion for

1 summary judgment. Mot. to Strike (doc. 92). Specifically,
2 Defendants move to strike (1) the Declaration of Constance Ann
3 Maynard ("Maynard Declaration"); (2) Exhibit A to the Maynard 4 Declaration; (3) Exhibits A, M, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U to the 5 Declaration of Stuart H. Sandhaus ("Sandhaus Declaration"); (4) the 6 Declaration of Daniel L. Peterson, M.D. ("Peterson Declaration"); 7 (5) Exhibits A, B and G to the Peterson Declaration; (6) the 8 Declaration of Sheila P. Bastien, Ph.D. ("Bastien Declaration"); 9 (7) Exhibits D, E, G and H to the Bastien Declaration; and (8)
10 Plaintiff's Controverting Statement of Facts in Opposition to 11 Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment, ¶¶ 7, 40-50. Id. at 1-2.
12 Defendants assert that all of these documents were produced after, 13 or are based upon documents produced after, CNA denied Plaintiff's 14 ERISA appeal, thus, they are not part of the administrative record.
15 Id. at 2. For this reason, Defendants request that the documents be 16 stricken. Id. at 2-3.

17 In contrast, Plaintiff argues that the contested documents 18 should not be stricken, because they are either part of the 19 administrative record or based upon documents that are part of the 20 administrative record. Resp. to Mot. to Strike (doc. 97) at 3-5.
21 First, Plaintiff's argument centers around evidence that was 22 submitted to Defendants after January 18, 2002, when the appeals
23 committee made its determination and affirmed CNA's earlier 24 decision to deny Plaintiff's claim for LTD benefits. Id. at 3.

25 "After Defendant CNA, who acted as the claims 26 administrator, denied Plaintiff's benefits on January 18, 2002, Plaintiff filed an appeal with the Plan Administrator/Fiduciary, Defendant 27 Hewitt. Both Defendant CNA and Hewitt thereafter accepted, reviewed, and considered additional 28 evidence in support of Plaintiff's claim for LTD

1                   benefits."

2 Id. Apparently, Plaintiff believes that she filed and Defendants 3 reviewed a "second" appeal of her claim that occurred after January 4 18, 2002. However, Plaintiff herself notes that CNA, in its letter 5 of January 14, 2003, in response to Plaintiff's submission of 6 additional evidence after January 18, 2002, stated "[t]here are no
7 further appeal reviews available." Id. at 4. In addition, Plaintiff 8 points out that Defendant Hewitt, in its response letter, stated, 9 "Ms. Maynard has exhausted all of her administrative 10 remedies...[and] [s]he may now pursue any available remedies in 11 court should she decide to do so." Id. The Court notes that 12 Defendant Hewitt in this letter also stated "CNA provided you with 13 a five-page final determination of benefits in which CNA advised 14 that Ms. Maynard's administrative record was closed and the 15 decision was final and binding." Sandhaus Declaration (doc. 81) at 16 Exbt. U.

17                 Second, Plaintiff asserts that the documents should not be 18 stricken, because they are "based upon documents that are part of 19 the administrative record[.]" Resp. to Mot. to Strike (doc. 97) at 20 4. In support of this assertion, Plaintiff again argues that 21 Defendants reviewed the contested documents during the alleged 22 "second" appeal. Id. at 5. Plaintiff admits that the contested
23 information was "reviewed" by Defendants after the January 18, 2002
24 appeal decision. Id. ("The 'information' reviewed by Defendant CNA 25 included updated medical reports from treating and consulting medical providers and rebuttal reports in response to documentation that was provided to Plaintiff as enclosures with Defendant CNA's letter of February 28, 2002."). However, Plaintiff argues that by

1 merely stating that they "reviewed" Plaintiff's correspondence or 2 by referencing the additional materials in their response letters, 3 Defendants automatically made the additional evidence part of the 4 administrative record. Id. at 4-5. Plaintiff cites no authority to 5 support this assertion. Moreover, Plaintiff fails to show that any 6 of the contested evidence was considered by the plan administrator
7 in its initial denial of Plaintiff's LTD benefits or in its review 8 of her appeal.

9 In abuse of discretion cases, evidence outside the 10 administrative record is completely inadmissible. Newman v.
11 Standard Insurance Company, 997 F.Supp. 1276, 1280 (C.D. Cal.
12 1998). "Permitting a district court to examine evidence outside the 13 administrative record would open the door to the anomalous 14 conclusion that a plan administrator abused its discretion by 15 failing to consider evidence not before it." Taft v. The Equitable 16 Life Assurance Society, et. al., 9 F.3d 1469, 1472 (9th Cir. 1993).
17 The documents filed by Plaintiff and challenged by Defendants in 18 their motion to strike are not part of the administrative record.
19 Thus, the Court shall grant Defendants' motion and order the 20 documents stricken from the record.

21 IV. Plaintiff's Motion for Leave to File and Request for Judicial 22 Notice

23 Plaintiff moves the Court for leave to file the Supplemental 24 Declaration of Constance Ann Maynard and the Declaration of Stuart 25 H. Sandhaus. Mot. for Leave to File (doc. 95). In explaining her 26 reasoning for this request, Plaintiff notes that she has recently 27 suffered from ill-health and, "[u]ntil recently, [she] was simply 28 unable to assist counsel in preparing her more complete Declaration

1 in Support of the Opposition to Defendants' Motion for Summary
 2 Judgment." Id. at 3. Plaintiff argues that this equals "excusable 3 neglect," and, under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 6(b)(2), the 4 Court may allow the late submission of her complete declaration.
 5 Id. In addition, Plaintiff requests that the Court take judicial 6 notice of certain settlement agreements involving Departments of 7 Insurance of forty-eight (48) states and UnumProvident. Request
 8 Jud. Not. (doc. 98) at 1. Defendants ask the Court to deny 9 Plaintiff's motion due to the fact that the affidavits Plaintiff
 10 seeks to introduce are not part of the administrative record. Resp.
 11 to Mot. for Leave to File (doc. 100).

12 As noted above, in abuse of discretion cases, evidence outside 13 the administrative record is completely inadmissible. See Newman, 14 997 F.Supp. at 1280; Taft, 9 F.3d at 1472. Plaintiff, in her 15 motion, clearly states that the affidavits she seeks to file with 16 the Court are new. Mot. for Leave to File (doc. 95) at 3 ("Over the 17 course of the past several weeks, Plaintiff has been able to confer 18 with counsel and prepare a more comprehensive declaration, which 19 she hereby seeks leave to file."). Thus, such documents are not 20 part of the administrative record and are inadmissible in this 21 matter. The Court shall deny Plaintiff's motion. For the same 22 reason, the Court shall also deny Plaintiff's request for judicial 23 notice.

24 V. Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment

25 a. Summary Judgment Standard

26 To grant summary judgment, the Court must determine that the 27 record before it contains "no genuine issue as to any material 28 fact" and, thus, "that the moving party is entitled to judgment as

1 a matter of law." Fed.R.Civ.P. 56(c). In determining whether to 2 grant summary judgment, the Court will view the facts and 3 inferences from these facts in the light most favorable to the 4 nonmoving party. See Matsushita Elec. Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 5 475 U.S. 574, 587 (1986).

6 The mere existence of some alleged factual dispute between the 7 parties will not defeat an otherwise properly supported motion for 8 summary judgment; the requirement is that there be no genuine issue 9 of material fact. See Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S.
 10 242, 247-48 (1986). A material fact is any factual dispute that 11 might affect the outcome of the case under the governing 12 substantive law. Id. at 248. A factual dispute is genuine if the 13 evidence is such that a reasonable jury could resolve the dispute 14 in favor of the nonmoving party. Id.

15 A party opposing a motion for summary judgment cannot rest 16 upon mere allegations or denials in the pleadings or papers, but 17 instead must set forth specific facts demonstrating a genuine issue 18 for trial. See id. at 250. Finally, if the nonmoving party's 19 evidence is merely colorable or is not significantly probative, a 20 court may grant summary judgment. See, e.g., California
Architectural Build. Prods., Inc. v. Franciscan Ceramics, 818 F.2d
 22 1466, 1468 (9th Cir. 1987).

23 b. Standard of Review

24 Typically, the standard of review to be applied by district 25 courts in reviewing challenged denials of ERISA benefits is "a de 26 novo standard[.]" Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. v. Bruch, 489 U.S.
 27 101, 115 (1989). However, when an ERISA administrator or fiduciary 28 is given discretionary authority to determine eligibility for

1 benefits or to construe plan terms, the proper review of a denial
 2 of benefits is under an abuse of discretion standard. See id.; 3 Ingram v. Martin Marietta Long Term Disability Income Plan for 4 Salaried Employees of Transferred GE Operations, 244 F.3d 1109,
 5 1112 (9th Cir. 2001).

6 In its Order of March 29, 2005, the Court concluded that, as a 7 matter of law, Policy-2 is the controlling document in this case.
 8 Order (doc. 60). The parties did not dispute that the language
 9 included in Policy-2 conferred discretionary authority upon CNA.<sup>2</sup> 10 Accordingly, the Court determined that the appropriate standard of 11 review in this matter is the abuse of discretion standard. Id. at 12 12.

<sup>2</sup>During oral argument, Plaintiff for the first time argued that Policy-2 does not contain a provision granting Defendant Hewitt the right to delegate its "fiduciary responsibilities" to Defendant CNA. Oral Argument, December 19, 2005 at 11:23:56AM-11:25:01AM. Citing Winterstein v. Stryker Corporation Group Life Insurance Plan, 2005 WL 3149742 (9th Cir. 2005), Plaintiff asserted that this lack of contract language requires that Defendants' denial of Plaintiff's benefits be subject to a de novo review. Oral Argument, December 19, 2005 at 11:24:29AM-11:25:01AM. The Court, however, finds Plaintiff's argument and reliance on Winterstein to be misplaced.

First, the Court notes that Winterstein is an unpublished case and, consequently, not binding precedent in this Circuit. Ninth Circuit Rule 36-3. Second, the court in Winterstein stated that "CNA's benefits decision must be reviewed de novo unless the Corporation's discretionary authority was properly delegated to CNA." 2005 WL 3149742 at *1. This rule is no different from that defined previously in this order or in the case law cited in support of such definition. Although the court in Winterstein went on to find that discretionary authority had not been properly delegated to CNA, such a holding is not clearly relevant to this case. Id. To the extent that Plaintiff seems to be arguing that this Court should reach the same conclusion because CNA was involved in both Winterstein and this case, the Court notes that there is no evidence in the record that establishes any similarity between the contracts involved in Winterstein and the case at bar. Accordingly, the Court finds that the holding in Winterstein raises no new issues in this matter.

1       The Ninth Circuit has held that ERISA plan administrators 2 "abuse their discretion if they render decisions without any 3 explanation, or construe provisions of the plan in a way that 4 conflicts with the plain language of the plan." Taft, 9 F.3d at 5 1472 (citing Eley v. Boeing Co., 945 F.2d 276, 279 (9th Cir. 1991)
6 and Johnson v. Trustees of W. Conference of Teamsters Pension Trust 7 Fund, 879 F.2d 651, 654 (9th Cir. 1989)). In addition, "an 8 administrator also abuses its discretion if it relies on clearly 9 erroneous findings of fact in making benefit determinations." Taft, 10 9 F.3d at 1473; see Jones v. Laborers Health & Welfare Trust Fund, 11 906 F.2d 480, 482 (9th Cir. 1990).

12           c. Analysis

13           1. Explanation of Denial of Benefits

14       Courts have held that ERISA plan administrators "abuse their 15 discretion if they render decisions without any explanation[.]"
16 Taft, 9 F.3d at 1472. Here, it is not clear whether Plaintiff 17 alleges that Defendants abused their discretion by rendering a 18 decision denying her LTD benefits without any explanation. Although 19 Plaintiff, in her Response to Defendants' motion for summary 20 judgment, enumerates this allegation in a heading, she does not 21 contest the existence of an explanation, but ultimately argues that 22 Defendants' decision was erroneous. Resp. (doc. 77) at 7
23 ("Defendants provide no explanation or medical evidence as to why 24 it is discrediting the overwhelming medical evidence and opinions 25 of Ms. Maynard's treating and consulting medical providers that she 26 is disabled and is continuously unable to perform each of the 27 material duties of her regular occupation."). Plaintiff fails to 28 raise any specific argument alleging the complete absence of an

1 explanation. In fact, Plaintiff received a five-page explanation of 2 the plan administrator's decision. Thus, the Court concludes that 3 there exists no genuine issue as to any material fact in relation 4 to this issue.

5 2. Plain Language of the Plan

6 Courts have also held that ERISA plan administrators abuse
7 their discretion if they "construe provisions of the plan in a way 8 that conflicts with the plain language of the plan." Taft, 9 F.3d
9 at 1472. Again, it is not clear to the Court whether Plaintiff 10 intends to allege that Defendants abused their discretion in this 11 manner.

12 In her Response, Plaintiff lists this allegation in a heading, 13 however she does not specifically argue how Defendants' decision 14 conflicted with the plain language of the plan. Resp. (doc. 77) at 15 9. Plaintiff instead asserts that Defendants breached their 16 fiduciary duties when they "secreted the alleged Policy-2 from the 17 beneficiary until after the administrative record was closed and 18 subsequent to the commencement of this litigation, knowing that 19 Plaintiff would not be able to perfect her claim under a policy 20 that contained material changes[.]" Id. at 10. The only specific 21 material changes that Plaintiff notes are "the terms for 22 establishing disability and the changing of the standard of 23 judicial review from de novo to abuse of discretion." Id. Plaintiff 24 does not, however, point to any evidence that indicates that 25 Defendants' denial of benefits conflicted with the plain language 26 of either plan. Regardless, the Court, in its Order of March 29, 27 2005, (doc. 60), concluded that Policy-2 is the controlling policy 28 in this matter, and Plaintiff has not shown the existence of any

1 genuine issue as to any material fact in relation to whether 2 Defendants' decision was in conflict with the plain language of 3 Policy-2.

4                   3. Clearly Erroneous Findings of Fact

5                 Lastly, an administrator may be found to have abused its 6 discretion if it relies on clearly erroneous findings of fact in 7 making benefit determinations. See Taft, 9 F.3d at 1473; see also 8 Jones, 906 F.2d at 482. A fiduciary's decision will not be 9 overturned where "there is substantial evidence to support the 10 decision, that is, where there is 'relevant evidence [that] 11 reasonable minds might accept as adequate to support a conclusion 12 even if it is possible to draw two inconsistent conclusions from 13 the evidence.'" Snow v. Standard Ins. Co., 87 F.3d 327, 332 (9th
 14 Cir. 1996) (quoting Maynard v. City of San Jose, 37 F.3d 1396, 1404
 15 (9th Cir. 1994)). "Abuse of discretion" means the entire record 16 leads to the firm conviction that a mistake has been made by the 17 plan administrator. See Boyd v. Bert Bell/Pete Rozell NFL Players 18 Retirement Plan, 410 F.3d 1173, 1179 (9th Cir. 2005). However, 19 "even decisions directly contrary to evidence in the record do not 20 necessarily amount to an abuse of discretion." Taft, 9 F.3d at 21 1473-74.

22                 Here, Plaintiff argues that Defendants' decision to deny her 23 benefits was clearly erroneous because she provided substantial 24 evidence indicating that she is disabled from Chronic Fatigue
 25 Syndrome ("CFS"). Resp. (doc. 77) at 4.<sup>3</sup> "The administrative record

---

26
 27                 <sup>3</sup> Plaintiff also raises an argument that Defendants breached 28 their fiduciary duties to Plaintiff, thus making their decision an abuse of discretion. Resp. (doc. 77) at 9, 10. However, beyond a mere

1 contains a plethora of evidence establishing that Plaintiff is 2 disabled from CFS. (SOF ¶¶ 12, 13, 15, 21)." Id. Plaintiff argues 3 that her "treating and consulting healthcare providers were 4 unanimous in their findings that Plaintiff was severely disabled by 5 debilitating Chronic Fatigue Syndrome." Id. at 11-12.<sup>4</sup> Moreover, 6 Plaintiff notes that she "received the maximum amount of Short Term 7 Disability benefits from Defendant Hewitt, and was approved for 8 benefits by the Social Security Administration." Id. at 12.
 9 Plaintiff asserts that once she submitted sufficient evidence to 10 support her claim, it became Defendants' burden to produce 11 "sufficient substantial evidence to establish that the CFS 12 diagnosis was erroneous...and that Plaintiff was not disabled from 13 CFS." Id. at 5. Although Plaintiff does not cite any authority that 14 supports her burden-shifting argument, she contends that Defendants 15 failed to fulfill this burden. Id. "Without affirmative evidence 16 that Plaintiff was not disabled by CFS, it can only be concluded 17 that Defendants [sic] denial of benefits was erroneous." Id.

18 In addition, Plaintiff argues that the review of her medical 19 record was biased and incomplete. Resp. (doc. 77) at 11.
 20 Specifically, Plaintiff notes that Dr. Truchelut (1) never examined 21 Plaintiff; (2) never contacted Plaintiff's treating and consulting 22 healthcare providers to discuss her "complex and debilitating 23 illnesses"; (3) never requested that Plaintiff submit to an 24

25 statement of this assertion, Plaintiff fails to argue or cite any 26 authority that supports this claim.

27 <sup>4</sup> Although it is not specified in her Response, Plaintiff seems 28 to designate Daniel L. Peterson, M.D. and Sheila P. Bastien, Ph.D. as her "treating and consulting healthcare providers."

1 Independent Medical Examination; (4) and there was no peer review 2 conducted on any of the submitted medical documentation and 3 reports. Id. Plaintiff also argues that Dr. Truchelut failed to 4 review and consider certain medical reports prepared by Dr.
 5 Peterson and Dr. Bastien. Oral Argument, December 19, 2005 at 6 11:27:59AM-11:30:59AM.

7 In support of her arguments, Plaintiff mainly relies on the 8 decision in Camerer v. Continental Casualty Co., 76 Fed. Appx. 837
 9 (9th Cir. 2003). The Court notes that Camerer is an unpublished 10 case and, therefore, is not binding precedent in this Circuit. Id.
 11 at 839.<sup>5</sup> In any event, Plaintiff's reliance on Camerer is 12 misplaced.

13 In Camerer, a former employee sued his employer's group plan 14 administrator following the denial of disability benefits under an 15 ERISA-governed welfare benefits plan. Id. The court affirmed the 16 District Court's award of disability benefits to the plaintiff, 17 finding that the plan administrator had abused its discretion. Id.
 18 The court in Camerer did not determine the standard of review that 19 should have been applied, but instead stated that the plan
 20 administrator abused its discretion under any standard. Id.
 21 Camerer's occupation involved the manipulation of heavy steel beams 22 surrounded by fast moving blades, and his medical records showed 23 that he suffered the effects of a traumatic brain injury, causing 24 him to have impaired visual-motor coordination, impaired memory,

25
 26       <sup>5</sup> "Unpublished dispositions and orders of this Court are not 27 binding precedent, except when relevant under the doctrine of law of 28 the case, res judicata, and collateral estoppel." Ninth Circuit Rule 36-3.

1 and difficulties with attention and retaining newly-acquired 2 information. Id. Pointing out that the plan administrator's denial 3 letters failed to acknowledge any of these neurological impairments
4 and misunderstood critical facts in relation to Camerer's claim, 5 the court determined that the plan administrator abused its 6 discretion. Id. at 840. Such an extreme case is not on par with the 7 matter that stands before this Court.

8 In the instant case, Plaintiff does not dispute that the 9 medical records submitted to Defendants include inconsistencies
10 regarding the status of her alleged disability and diagnosis. Resp.
11 (doc. 77) at 3-4. Plaintiff only challenges the weight Defendants 12 placed on such inconsistencies in making their final decision.
13 Defendants, however, were not required to give deference to 14 Plaintiff's treating physician's opinion or provide specific 15 reasons for rejecting his opinion. See Black & Decker Disability 16 Plan v. Nord, 538 U.S. 822, 834 (2003). Moreover, the decision is 17 not automatically deemed arbitrary and capricious because 18 Defendants did not consider or find dispositive the fact that 19 Plaintiff was approved for benefits by the Social Security 20 Administration. See Madden v. ITT Long Term Disability Plan for 21 Salaried Employees, 914 F.2d 1279, 1285 (9th Cir. 1990). Finally, 22 Plaintiff fails to cite, nor can the Court find, any authority 23 indicating that Defendants were required to examine Plaintiff in 24 person, contact Plaintiff's treating and consulting healthcare 25 providers to discuss her "complex and debilitating illnesses," 26 request that Plaintiff submit to an Independent Medical 27 Examination, or have a peer review conducted on the submitted 28 medical documentation and reports.

1       In making its initial decision denying Plaintiff's claim for 2 LTD benefits, Defendant CNA considered the report and analysis of 3 Dr. Truchelut. Exbt. D (doc. 73). In his report, Dr. Truchelut
4 notes Dr. Peterson's diagnoses of CFS and other ailments. Id. at 5.
5 In addition, Dr. Truchelut lists Dr. Peterson's conclusions that 6 Plaintiff was incapable of sustained lifting, standing or walking 7 for more than two hours per day, and that, due to cognitive 8 dysfunction, Plaintiff had difficulty with concentration and 9 completion of tasks. Id. However, despite these opinions, Dr.
10 Truchelut found that Plaintiff's medical record did not support a 11 finding that Plaintiff was unable to perform sedentary work 12 activities. Id.

13       In support of this conclusion, Dr. Truchelut specifically 14 points out that at the time Plaintiff stopped working, her 15 "physical examination was fairly benign, and laboratory studies 16 prior to that were generally negative." Id. The report itself 17 includes numerous references to Plaintiff's medical record where 18 the evident status of her medical conditions conflict. Exbt. E 19 (doc. 73). Dr. Truchelut cites on at least twenty-eight occasions 20 in his report that Plaintiff's exams or test results were "within 21 normal limits", "negative", "described as normal", "unremarkable", 22 or "benign". Id. Finally, Dr. Truchelut notes that although 23 Plaintiff's record showed that she had a poor tolerance to vigorous 24 exercise, "it is generally accepted that sustained sedentary 25 activity typically requires less than 5 mets, and [Plaintiff] went 26 well beyond that." Id.

27       A similar analysis was conducted on Plaintiff's appeal. After 28 Plaintiff appealed CNA's initial denial of benefits, she submitted

1 additional information regarding her claim. Exbt. F (doc. 73) at 1.
2 In its letter affirming the original decision in this matter, CNA
3 notes that it reviewed and considered all the information, "as well 4 as the psychological information presented by Dr. Bastien, but the 5 evidence does not support a functional loss or significant 6 deterioration that would preclude Ms. Maynard from continuously 7 performing the substantial and material duties of her regular 8 occupation[.]" Id. at 2. Again, CNA cites numerous inconsistencies 9 in Plaintiff's medical record, noting that most of her clinical 10 tests showed "benign", "negative", or "normal" results. Id. 2-3.
11 CNA acknowledges the abnormalities noted by Dr. Bastien in the 12 neuropsychological testing, but states that "this alone does not 13 substantiate Ms. Maynard's inability to continue working." Id. at 14 4. "The psychological testing and information presented does not 15 support a mental or emotional impairment that would preclude Ms.
16 Maynard from working." Id. at 4-5.

17 Although Plaintiff asserts that Defendants failed to consider 18 certain medical "reports" produced by Dr. Peterson and Dr. Bastien, 19 she has not specifically indicated which "reports" she claims were 20 not reviewed and whether or not they are even part of the 21 administrative record. It is evident in Dr. Truchelut's report that 22 he reviewed and considered medical records produced by Dr.
23 Peterson. Exbt. D (doc. 73) (citing Dr. Peterson's notes and 24 findings in Plaintiff's medical records). Although, in his report, 25 Dr. Truchelut refers to medical "records" produced by Dr. Peterson 26 instead of "reports", it is not clear to this Court that Dr.
27 Truchelut was not referring to the same materials that Plaintiff 28 claims Defendants failed to review. Moreover, Plaintiff has not

1 shown that any reports produced by Dr. Bastien were submitted by 2 Plaintiff prior to Dr. Truchelut's review. Regardless, it is clear 3 from Defendants' letter denying Plaintiff's appeal that Dr.
4 Bastien's report was reviewed in reference to Plaintiff's appeal.
5 Exbt. F (doc. 73) (citing Dr. Bastien's notes and findings in 6 Plaintiff's medical records).

7 It is evident in the letters and reports described above that 8 CNA considered the evidence before it in making its decision to 9 deny Plaintiff's claim for LTD benefits. Plaintiff argues that 10 Defendants' disregard of her treating and consulting physicians' 11 opinions qualifies as an abuse of discretion. However, beyond the 12 conclusive statements of her doctors, Plaintiff does not specify 13 any clinical evidence in the record that clearly supports such 14 findings. More importantly, Plaintiff fails to raise any argument 15 that indicates that CNA based its decision on clearly erroneous 16 findings of fact. Thus, the Court finds no genuine issue as to any 17 material fact in existence in relation to this matter and concludes 18 that Defendants did not abuse their discretion. Defendants are 19 entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

20 Therefore,

21 IT IS ORDERED that the parties' Stipulated Motion for Leave to 22 Amend Complaint to Add Additional Party (doc. 105) is GRANTED.

23 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Defendants' Motion to Strike (doc.
24 92) is GRANTED. The following shall be stricken from the record:
25 (1) the Declaration of Constance Ann Maynard (doc. 80); (2) Exhibit 26 A to the Maynard Declaration (doc. 80); (3) Exhibits A, M, O, P, Q, 27 R, S, T, U to the Declaration of Stuart H. Sandhaus (doc. 81); (4)
28 the Declaration of Daniel L. Peterson, M.D. (doc. 82); (5) Exhibits

1 A, B and G to the Peterson Declaration (doc. 82); (6) the 2 Declaration of Sheila P. Bastien, Ph.D. (doc. 83); (7) Exhibits D, 3 E, G and H to the Bastien Declaration (doc. 83); and (8)
4 Plaintiff's Controverting Statement of Facts in Opposition to 5 Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment, ¶¶ 7, 40-50 (doc. 78).

6 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Plaintiff's Motion for Leave to 7 File Supplemental Declaration of Plaintiff and Declaration of 8 Stuart H. Sandhaus in Support of Opposition to Defendant's [sic] 9 Motion for Summary Judgement (doc. 95) and Request for Judicial 10 Notice (doc. 98) are DENIED.

11 IT IS FINALLY ORDERED that Defendants' Motion for Summary 12 Judgment (doc. 72) is GRANTED. The clerk shall enter judgment and 13 terminate this case.

14 DATED this 10th day of January, 2006.
